Research interests

I am interested in theoretical problems in high-dimensional Statistics which are motivated by practical challenges in Statistical Inference, Signal Processing and Machine Learning, e.g. low-rank matrix factorisation, phase retrieval and learning in neural networks, to cite a few. My approach to these problems leverage techniques originally developed in the context of Statistical Physics and Disordered Systems to address questions of interest in these fields. As an example, two questions often motivating my works are: what is the typical algorithmic complexity of an inference task? How many samples are needed for a neural network to learn a target rule?

Python, Mathematica, LaTeX.
